DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-14 and 48-49, drawn to a barley plant produced by mutagenesis and breeding, classified in class 435, subclass 440, for example.
- II. Claims 15-41 and 45-47, drawn to malt and wort compositions and beverage from barley, classified in class 426, subclass 11, for example.
- III. Claims 42-44, drawn to transformation of barley with a recombinant gene, classified in class 800, subclass 278, for example.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as mutually exclusive species in an intermediate-final product relationship. Distinctness is proven for claims in this relationship if the intermediate product is useful to make other than the final product, and the species are patentably distinct (MPEP § 806.05(j)). In the instant case, the intermediate product is deemed to be useful as a parent plant in plant breeding process and for production of recombinant proteins. The inventions are deemed patentably distinct because there is nothing on this record to show them to be obvious variants. In addition, the intermediate and final products do not overlap in scope and are not connected in design, operation, or effect. For these reasons, the inventions of groups I and II are patentably distinct.

Furthermore, searching the inventions of groups I and II together would impose a serious search burden. The inventions of Groups I and II have a separate status in the art as shown by their different classifications.

Inventions I and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the specification does not disclose that the mutant plant of Group I can be used in the plant transformation method of Group III. The method of the invention of Group III requires isolated gene, promoter and introducing the gene into the plant, which are not required by the method of Group I. The method of Group I requires mutagenesis and breeding of plants that are not required by the method of Group III. For these reasons, the inventions of groups I and III are patentably distinct.

Furthermore, searching the inventions of groups I and III together would impose a serious search burden. The inventions of Groups I and III have a separate status in the art as shown by their different classifications.

Inventions II and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the specification does not disclose that the wort/beverage or malt composition of Group II can be used in the plant transformation method of Group III. For these reasons, the inventions of groups II and III are patentably distinct.

Furthermore, searching the inventions of groups II and III together would impose a serious search burden. The inventions of Groups II and III have a separate status in the art as shown by their different classifications.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above, have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, and the search required for each group is not required for the other groups because each group requires a different non-patent literature search due to each group comprising different products and/or method steps, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
